

July 2007

Re: Amphenol Sine Systems becomes part of IMA&I Group

Amphenol Sine Systems has been placed within the IMA&I Group, a division of Amphenol Corporation, which specializes in International Military Aerospace & Industrial applications. This division is responsible for creating a diversified presence in high growth segments of the interconnect market, specifically Military, Aerospace and Industrial applications.

Key markets supported in the Military and Aerospace segment are: avionics, radar, communications, ordnance, missiles, engines, ground vehicles and tanks, space, and all levels of aviation.

Key markets supported in the Industrial segment are: automotive, factory automation, heavy duty equipment, instrumentation, motion control, medical equipment, mass transportation, and oil exploration.

